Partial Extract from Anglo-Boer War Concentration Camp Death Records

(Compiled from South African Archives and official grave sites)

Supporting Evidence of Historical Injustice

Purpose

This attachment presents a partial extract from a comprehensive compilation of death records from British concentration camps during the Anglo-Boer War (1899–1902), drawn from South African archival sources (e.g., Transvaal Archives, State Archives, and related registers). The full document spans approximately 600 pages, listing tens of thousands of deaths (primarily women and children). The purpose is to provide tangible evidence of the scale of suffering in the camps, supporting the petition's claim under UNDRIP Articles 7 and 8. This is a partial extract only; the complete document is available upon request.

Overview of the Records

The compilation records names, ages, places of origin, causes of death, and camp locations for Boer civilians interned in the camps. Archival sources indicate ~40 000 deaths (mostly women and children under 16), due to disease, malnutrition, and neglect. The official figure commemorated at the Nasionale Vrouemonument (Bloemfontein) is approximately 26,370, but full records available and graves with evidence of multiple burials per grave accounts for ~40 000 deaths. Evidence also exists of multiple bodies in single graves (up to 4 per grave in some cases, due to chaotic burials during outbreaks) suggest a higher actual estimate of around 40,000 for white camps alone. The attached pages include:

- Image 1: General extract showing diverse surnames and camp locations.
- Images 2-8: Extracts limited to the surname "Fourie" (7 pages, demonstrating the impact on ONLY ONE individual family tree).

These records underscore the demographic and cultural trauma inflicted on the Boervolk, with the discrepancy between official commemorative figures and archival evidence highlighting ongoing minimization of the injustice.

Sources

- Compiled from Transvaal Archives (TA), State Archives and Education History Archives (SAEHA), and related registers (e.g., SRC series).
- Nasionale Vrouemonument official figure: ~26,370 (warmuseum.co.za and monument descriptions).
- Higher estimates and multiple burials: Historical analyses (e.g., Pakenham, Van Heyningen) and archival records.
- Full document (630 pages): Available upon request for complete review.

This annex is submitted for historical accuracy and cultural recognition, in a spirit of peace under the guidance of the Almighty Heavenly Father.

Attached Extracts

- Image 1: Page 1 of the death list (general entries).
- Images 2–8: 7 pages with "Fourie" surname entries only.
